

Investing in the Future: Apprentice Day with AEMT – Hosted by Sulzer

10 months ago

The Association of Electrical & Mechanical Trades (AEMT) is proud to present Apprentice Day 2025, hosted by industry leader Sulzer at their facility in Birmingham on 11th June.

This one-of-a-kind event brings together apprentices from across the electro-mechanical sector for a day of powerful learning, hands-on development, and lasting connections.

Here's What's in Store:

Breakout Workshops

Rotate through expert-led sessions focused on communication, technical training, and real apprentice experiences.

Behind-the-Scenes Facility Tour

Explore Sulzer's workshop operations, engage with professionals, and test your knowledge in a fun, interactive quiz.

Group Wrap-Up

Connect, share insights, and reflect on key learnings before heading into the afternoon.

Outdoor Team-Building

Step outside your comfort zone with transformative experiences designed to build trust, collaboration, and leadership.

Whether you're just starting your career or building on what you've learned, AEMT's Apprentice Day is about more than just training — it's about empowering the next generation of engineers and technicians.

Commenting on this inaugural event, Scott Haslam, Membership Manager at the AEMT, said: "This day is more than training — it's about connection, confidence, and creating a future-ready workforce."

Spaces are limited, so to find out more and to register your interest, please visit the AEMT website - <https://www.theaemt.com/> - or contact Rebecca Bowman on 01904 674 899.
