

PTSG company completes electrical safety seminar series

7 months ago

Guardian, a constituent company of Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG), has completed its seventh and final electrical safety seminar at the Emirates Old Trafford Cricket Ground in Manchester.

The seminars were tailor-made for It is ideal for duty holders who are responsible for electrical safety in their building(s). Some of the topics covered included:

- BS7671:2018 Amendment 4 – Incoming Significant Changes
- Electrical Vehicle Supply Equipment
- Arc Flash
- Panel Risk Assessments
- Discharging Dutyholder Responsibility

Within a two-month period, Guardian's team travelled around the UK to deliver the seven seminars:

- 20 March: IWM Duxford, Cambridgeshire
- 27 March: The Pullman Hotel, London
- 3 April: Dakota Hotel, Motherwell
- 1 May: The Celtic Manor, Newport
- 8 May: The National Motorcycle Museum & National Conference Centre, Solihull
- 15 May: Oulton Hall, Leeds
- 22 May: Emirates Old Trafford, Manchester

The seminars brought some great feedback from attendees:

Daniel Lund, Ardagh Group – “I’d like to thank everyone involved for yesterday’s event, this was my first seminar, and I really did pick a good one to start with. We have a long-standing partnership with Guardian, utilising your professionalism throughout various areas of our site, I look forward to more of this in the future.”

Nick Kelf, Worthing College – “Thanks to the “whole team” for a very informative and well-run professional presentation. it was clear to see the presenters were top of their respective fields. certainly, left me reassured that we were being proactive in our compliance measures with your team.”

Keith Fox, ADM – “Just a brief line to thank you and the team for an excellent seminar last Thursday. Good to see and catch up with some faces from the past and listen to some upcoming changes. Always good to reinforce the importance of the message of compliance.”

1,800 miles, seven cities and 400+ attendees later, the series is all wrapped up! Thank you to everyone who attended and made the series such a great success.