8 months ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG) is delivering a suite of specialist Access & Safety services at a major new commercial development in the heart of London's iconic Oxford Street.

The project, being led by main contractor Wates Construction with architectural input from Orms, will see the transformation of Wells House into a striking nine-storey mixed-use building. The scheme includes prime retail space across the basement, ground and first floors, with modern office accommodation occupying the upper levels. Occupants will benefit from high-quality end-of-journey facilities, including a cycle hub and basement-level showers, while a landscaped rooftop terrace will offer panoramic views of Central London.

PTSG Access & Safety Ltd, the original division of the wider PTSG Group, has been contracted to install fall protection systems as part of the development. The systems will provide safe access for facilities teams undertaking rooftop maintenance and ensure full compliance with current health and safety standards.

A market leader in the design and installation of fall arrest and restraint systems, PTSG's engineers bring sector-leading expertise to projects across the UK. The company's comprehensive approach ensures that clients in every sector are equipped with the most effective and compliant access solutions.
