

PTSG team completes 15,000ft skydive in support of Cash for Kids

2 months ago

A team of ten colleagues from NSS, part of Premier Technical Services Group Ltd \(PTSG\), took to the skies on Friday 6 June for a charity skydive that raised vital funds for Cash for Kids Greater Manchester.

Originally scheduled to jump from 11,000 feet, the team showed true commitment to the cause by upgrading to 15,000 feet – the highest tandem jump available in the UK. As they exited the aircraft, they enjoyed panoramic views stretching to Blackpool Tower and the coast, before plummeting 10,000 feet in a 60-second freefall, reaching speeds of up to 150mph.

The daring team included:

Chris Ogden, Naomi Davies, Jasmin Johal, William Smith, Ethan Austen-Davies, Ronan Skerritt, John Wolstencroft, Ron Lamb, Mike Healy and Mike Maloney.

Their efforts have so far raised a remarkable £7,277, with donations still coming in. Contributions can be made via the official fundraising page: NSS Skydive June 2025 | Cash for Kids

Cash for Kids is a grant-giving charity that supports children and young people in need across the UK. In 2024, it raised £21.4 million, helping over 509,000 children.

The skydive reflects PTSG's ongoing commitment to community support and corporate social responsibility, with teams regularly participating in charity initiatives across the UK
