

Carrier Announces New Parts Distributor Partnership in Ireland

7 months ago

Carrier Commercial HVAC UK has appointed Viridus Energy as a new distributor in Ireland to offer the full range of Carrier CHVAC spare parts. Carrier Commercial HVAC UK is a part of Carrier Global Corporation (NYSE: CARR), global leader in intelligent climate and energy solutions.

Viridus Energy, with dedicated warehouses in Dublin and Kilkenny, will be able to supply components including compressors, universal parts and technical support for CHVAC parts to customers across the Republic of Ireland.

Viridus Energy already has a strong commercial relationship with Carrier, having already been the official distributor of light commercial and residential Carrier equipment, and then adding Riello and Vokera boilers to their offering in September 2024. Now, Viridus will stock and supply a comprehensive range of parts for larger HVAC equipment such as chillers, heat pumps and air handling units designed for customers across a wide range of commercial sectors.

“We’re delighted to officially announce our partnership with Viridus Energy in Ireland and expand our network of highly experienced and dedicated parts experts,” said Paul White, Parts & Spares Sales Account Manager, Carrier Commercial HVAC UK. “Partnering with Viridus Energy means we have specialists on the ground in Ireland who know our equipment and can expertly serve customers with all their parts needs.”

Carrier has dedicated parts teams and factories located throughout Europe, and delivers 250 orders daily, distributing more than 1,600 shipments per week around the world.

“We have a diverse inventory of components at our disposal which means we can help keep downtime to a minimum for our clients,” said Tom Lyons, Managing Director of Viridus Energy. “Our team have a collective experience of over 40 years and have acquired some of the most robust industry knowledge along the way. Having worked with Carrier over the last couple of years, our expertise with the brand's technical details and capabilities are second to none. We're delighted to add Carrier's CHVAC parts to our portfolio because it demonstrates our commitment to offering a wide range of heating, ventilation, and air conditioning solutions for all types of applications throughout Ireland."
