EICC Nourish manages all catering operations at the EICC, for events including conferences, corporate meetings, exhibitions, and live entertainment. This appointment further bolsters the strong senior management team, led by General Manager, Claire McHardy; Head of Catering Planners, Katy Allen; Executive Chef, Adrian Knibbs; and Location Accountant, Michelle Okoro.

Situated in central Edinburgh, the EICC has established itself as a premier global destination for conferences and events, with capacities of up to 5,760.

Commenting on his appointment, Craig said: "This is a really exciting move for me and I'm proud to be working at one of the world's premier destinations for conferences and events. As someone who genuinely has a passion for the hospitality industry and loves working in events, this is the perfect role. We've got a fantastic team, bringing expertise from some of the best venues across Scotland, and I'm looking forward to working with them to deliver exceptional event experiences for all."

Claire McHardy, General Manager at EICC Nourish added: "Craig is well-known in the Edinburgh hospitality industry, and his experience is second to none. We're all thrilled to have him joining the team. I know he's going to be a perfect fit and is already playing a crucial role in maintaining and elevating the offering we have here at the EICC. This is a very exciting time for us, as the EICC celebrates its 30th anniversary, and as we make plans to further enhance the visitor experience."
