This year's theme, Activate the Senses, invites attendees to experience the power of sensory design in shaping how we feel, focus, and function in the workplace.

Bringing together over 5,000 architects, designers, workplace strategists, and commercial interiors professionals, the show will spotlight the ideas, products, and solutions redefining the future of workspaces.

With 170+ leading brands, 120+ speakers, and five immersive feature spaces, the 2025 edition will offer everything from tactile materials and biophilic installations to scent, sound, and lighting environments that respond to the senses. Attendees will explore how design can not only look good — but also feel, sound, and even smell better.

The 2025 programme will showcase 35+ panel discussions from influential voices from firms including OMA, MVRDV, UNStudio, Mecanoo, Gensler, Amazon, Booking.com, Adidas, ABN AMRO, Sanofi, AECOM, Casper Schwarz and many others. Across three dedicated conference stages, attendees will gain exclusive insights into how innovation, wellbeing, data, and design intersect in today's evolving built environments.

Visitors will get hands-on with the latest workplace solutions in furniture, lighting, acoustics, biophilia, surfaces, and technology from top brands such as Vitra, VEPA, Pedrali, Artifort, Interstuhl, Sedus, Interface, Tarkett, Kettal, König + Neurath, Humanscale, and more.

This year's edition will also feature five specially commissioned sensory spaces by firms including UNStudio, Mecanoo, M Moser Associates, and Casper Schwarz Architects, as well as the Mood Board Contest curated by Biophilic Design Academy. The globally renowned FRAME Awards will take place live at the event, celebrating excellence and innovation in interiors from around the world.
