Trinity Fire & Security Systems, part of Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG) Fire Solutions, has successfully completed its latest LPS1014 audit at the Temple Quarter Enterprise Campus (TQA1) in Bristol – one of the UK's largest city-centre regeneration projects.

The new campus, being developed for the University of Bristol, is transforming the former Royal Mail sorting office site next to Bristol Temple Meads station. Early collaboration and strong engagement with the supply chain have already helped the project achieve a 25% reduction in embodied carbon.

LPS1014 is the fire industry's benchmark for the design, installation and commissioning of detection and alarm systems. By passing this latest audit, Trinity has once again underlined its reputation for delivering fully compliant, reliable and risk-reducing fire safety solutions.

A Trinity spokesperson said: *"This achievement reflects the expertise and dedication of our team. We're proud to continue setting the highest standards of compliance."
