4 months ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG) has been appointed to deliver specialist at-height services at Tynecastle Park, the home of Heart of Midlothian Football Club.

Founded in 1874, Hearts is the oldest football club in Edinburgh and plays in the Scottish Premiership. The club has played at Tynecastle Park since 1886, with the stadium now offering a capacity of 19,852 following redevelopment works, including the main stand rebuild in 2017.

As part of the new contract, Pendrich – PTSG's Building Access Specialists division – will undertake preparation and painting works on four floodlight support towers. The project began with a detailed pre-start survey carried out by Pendrich's drone inspection team, which will also document progress and completion.

The work will be delivered by Pendrich's IRATA International-certified engineers, who bring extensive expertise in rope access and high-level maintenance. This approach ensures the project is completed safely, efficiently and with minimal disruption to stadium operations.
