

Winners taste success at BICSc Awards: A celebration of the cleaning industry's talent

2 months ago

The leading lights of the professional cleaning and hygiene industry celebrated their success as the winners of the British Institute of Cleaning Science \(BICSc\) Awards 2025 were announced at this year's glittering ceremony.

The annual awards shine a spotlight on the global cleaning community toasting the achievements of individuals and teams, recognising their dedication in multiple roles within the industry.

The BICSc Awards are industry-leading and every year the institute is inundated with nominations, with this year proving phenomenally popular receiving a record number of entries, which were up by 25 per cent.

BICSc Group Managing Director, Neil Spencer-Cook, said: "The BICSc Awards 2025 were an outstanding success. It was fantastic to be able to celebrate the very best in the cleaning industry and honour the incredible individuals and teams who make a real difference every day.

"These awards are about recognising excellence but more than that, they're about celebrating the people who make our industry what it is, the ones who go above and beyond, who innovate and who inspire."

Neil was able to celebrate with fellow winners taking to the stage to receive their accolades after he was announced as the recipient of The David Bellamy Award for his decade of service to BICSc.

Neil added: "It was an absolute honour to receive this prestigious award in recognition of my 10 years of service with BICSc – it is a career highlight for me. I wanted to say a huge thank you for being awarded the accolade and also thank the great team who I work with at the institute."

The British Cleaning Council was proud to sponsor the awards and Chair David Garcia is pictured here handing over the Outstanding Candidate of the Year accolade to winner Joshua Morel.

At the prestigious ceremony host, BICSc Technical Manager, Kelsey Hargreaves announced the following awards and winners:

- The David Bellamy Award – Neil Spencer-Cook
