

Orbis Protect Announces Strategic Acquisition of Portcullis Global Limited

4 months ago

Orbis Protect has announced the strategic acquisition of the ongoing trade of Portcullis Global Limited. The acquisition represents a significant opportunity for Orbis to expand its specialist security solutions presence in the growth markets of house building, ground works and social housing.

The Portcullis brand is a leader of CCTV security in these markets and the acquisition represents an opportunity for the business to continue to serve its customers and deliver a more enhanced and holistic security solution proposition. The transaction has been concluded following Portcullis Global Limited entering into Administration, with the business and assets being acquired by the Orbis Group.

The acquisition means that Orbis will be able to seamlessly continue to deliver the excellent security services that customers expect every day. It also means that they will be able to invest in making sure the business is correctly resourced to deliver on its future growth ambitions, including making the wider products and services of Orbis available to Portcullis and its customers.

Ben Howard, Orbis Protect CEO, commented: "The acquisition of Portcullis is the latest part of our acquisition strategy that has seen us successfully deliver and integrate six acquisitions in the last three years. Each acquisition has been carefully sourced to deliver on our strategic goals of broadening our integrated security solutions and expanding our deliverable markets. At the heart of the Portcullis acquisition are great people who put their customers experience at the forefront of what they do. This is why the business is such a great fit for Orbis. I look forward to working with Jake and the team on the next leg of their growth journey."
