

Smart Buildings Show celebrates biggest event yet

6 months ago

Smart Buildings Show enjoyed its biggest event yet with more exhibitors than ever before and 3,500 attendees passing through the doors over two days.

Taking place at ExCeL London on 15-16 October, the Show also hosted a busy conference schedule across four sector-focused seminar theatres. Featuring some of the industry's leading voices, seminars covered a wide range of topics, including cybersecurity, energy compliance, career pathways, competency levels, decarbonisation, predictive maintenance, system integration and more.

Post-show feedback was very positive, with speakers delighted with the attendances and audience engagement in the theatres, while exhibitors reported a busy flow of visitors to their stands.

Brian English, Business Development Executive at Reliable Controls, said: "My speaker slot was well attended with a very engaged audience and plenty of follow-up questions."

Ian Ellis, Marketing Manager at Siemens Buildings, said: "This is the one exhibition that's truly dedicated to the smart buildings industry. Once again we had a high volume of visitors to our stand - it's the Show you want to be at."

Luke Beardall, Academic Solutions Manager at the Chartered Institute Of Building, said: "As a training provider it was really good to connect with the other side of the industry and help to bridge the knowledge gap."

Sam Wood, EMEA Lead, Intelligent Environments GTM, Cisco Systems, added: "We were delighted with how well organised the event was and also with the level of engagement from attendees. We had high expectations for the number of productive conversations we would have both after our panel sessions and at our stand. These expectations were achieved and we feel the event was thoroughly worthwhile. Thank you to the Smart Buildings Show organisers - we hope to be back next year."

Smart Buildings Show will return to London ExCeL on 14-15 October 2026. For exhibitor enquiries please email Claire Hatchett at C.Hatchett@turretgroup.com.
