

Savills strengthens property management team with appointment of Stephen Elliott

6 months ago

Savills has expanded its property and facilities management team with the appointment of Stephen Elliott as Director of Strategic Client Solutions, based at the firm's Margaret Street headquarters.

Stephen brings 25 years of senior real estate fund management experience, having worked with UK institutional clients including local authority and corporate pension funds at Legal & General Asset Management, Royal London Asset Management, Aviva Investors and F&C Asset Management. His unique client-side perspective will be instrumental as Savills continues to develop its client relationship management and service delivery.

In his new role within the Client Services team, Stephen will provide strategic insight into delivering integrated property management services across client portfolios. He will work closely with CRM and surveying teams, along with the wider business, on strategic client planning and service innovation.

Stephen Elliott, Director of Strategic Client Solutions at Savills, says: "I am pleased to join Savills at such an exciting time for the business. With increasing demand from clients for integrated property management solutions, I look forward to bringing a client-side perspective to help shape strategic planning and enhance service delivery across key portfolios."

Katrina McKay, Chief Operating Officer, UK Property Management at Savills, adds: "We're very pleased to welcome Stephen to the team. His extensive experience working with institutional investors and deep understanding of client needs will be invaluable as we continue to evolve our market leading property management offering."
