

PTSG strengthens fire installation leadership with senior appointment at Trinity

4 hours ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG) has reinforced its fire solutions capability with the appointment of Andy Moir as Installation Director (UK) for Trinity Fire & Security Systems.

Andy, who takes up the position on 8 December, joins from Johnson Controls where he held senior leadership roles within the Fire & Security division, including Installation Director and General Manager. His responsibilities included national oversight of installation delivery, operational performance and customer service across a wide and diverse portfolio.

The appointment also represents a return to familiar territory. Earlier in his career, Andy worked with Trinity as a Project Manager, providing him with direct insight into the company's operational culture, standards and customer expectations. This blend of external experience at scale and internal knowledge is expected to support a smooth transition into the role.

In his new position, Andy will lead Trinity's installation operations nationwide, supporting improvements in programme delivery, quality assurance and customer experience as part of PTSG Fire Solutions' continued expansion.

Michael Anderson, Managing Director of PTSG Fire Solutions, commented: "Andy is an outstanding addition to Trinity and to the wider Fire Solutions division. He brings deep sector expertise and proven operational leadership, combined with an understanding of Trinity's values and ways of working. His appointment strengthens our ability to deliver high-quality, compliant fire and security installation services across the UK.”

Trinity Fire & Security Systems is one of the UK’s leading fire and security specialists, supporting customers in commercial, industrial, residential and public sector environments. The business forms part of PTSG Fire Solutions, one of five divisions within Premier Technical Services Group.
