

Tendra Technical Services acquires Coat Facilities Group

2 months ago

Tendra Technical Services has completed the acquisition of Coat Facilities Group Ltd, a provider of integrated facilities management services, as it continues to build a national technical services platform across the UK built environment. Financial terms of the transaction have not been disclosed.

Coat Facilities Group operates as a network of specialist facilities management businesses, delivering both hard and soft services to a portfolio of high-profile clients nationwide. Based in the West Midlands, the group has established a strong reputation for technical expertise and service quality across the sector.

The acquisition sees Coat join Tendra Technical Services, a newly established group bringing together UK technical services businesses operating across the built environment. Tendra's platform currently includes The James Mercer Group, Fletchers Engineering Ltd and Coat Facilities Group Ltd. The group's strategy centres on combining regional strength with national scale, supported by shared operational capabilities, best practice and targeted acquisitions.

Greg Davies, Group CEO of Tendra Technical Services, said: "Coat is well-positioned with a long-standing reputation for quality and technical expertise operating both nationally and regionally. We look forward to collaborating closely with the Coat team as we work towards building a national leader in UK built environment technical services."

Adam Atkins, Group Chief Executive of Coat, said: "Joining the Tendra alliance of businesses is an important next step in the growth journey of Coat Facilities Group. By combining our track record in serving the built environment with Tendra's focus on service evolution and technology, we can offer even more to our customers while protecting the quality and reliability they expect from us. With the support of Triton and the strength of the wider Tendra group, we have the platform, expertise and ambition to develop our services further and create even better outcomes for the customers and communities we serve.”

Tendra said the addition of Coat Facilities Group strengthens its technical and service capabilities, supporting its ambition to create long-term value for customers, employees and stakeholders across the built environment sector.