

Exi-tite Announces Two New Appointments

4 months ago

As part of an ongoing commitment to strengthening its team and supporting continued business growth, leading HVAC supplier Exi-tite has appointed Andy Munson as Regional Sales Manager – London, and Trevor Girvan as Technical Engineer.

Andy Munson joins the business with 46 years of experience in the HVAC industry. During his career, he has worked with organisations including Space Air (Daikin distributor), Toshiba Air Conditioning and CIAT. His background includes heat pumps, air conditioning, heating units and dehumidification systems.

He said: “Over the years I have seen how important it is to listen carefully to clients and fully understand their requirements. Every project is different, and my focus has always been on identifying the most appropriate heat pump, air conditioning or dehumidification solution to meet those needs. I look forward to supporting customers across London in my new role.”

Trevor Girvan began his HVAC career in 2006 as an apprentice, progressing from installation to servicing and commissioning equipment across a range of manufacturers including Mitsubishi Electric, Daikin and Toshiba, further developing his technical experience.

He said: “I am pleased to be joining Exi-tite as Technical Engineer. I look forward to developing my skill set further and building positive working relationships with colleagues and customers.”

Andrew Robinson, Group Managing Director at Exi-tite, said, “We welcome Andy and Trevor to the business. Their respective experience in sales and technical delivery will support our operations and customer base. The appointments reflect our continued investment in both commercial capability and technical expertise to better serve our customers and partners across the UK.”