

ISS Lands Bank of England Contract

4 months ago

ISS, a leading global workplace experience and facility services company, has been awarded a new 4-year contract (with an option to extend for an additional year) with the Bank of England.

Beginning Q2 2026, ISS will provide integrated facilities services (IFS), including cleaning, mailroom, front-of-house and workplace services, to multiple sites across England, including the Bank's historic headquarters in the City of London. The contract also includes the potential to add additional service options as the contract progresses.

The contract was awarded following a rigorous commercial process, with ISS being selected as a strategic partner to help the Bank of England deliver its vision for the future. This includes working to embed flexibility, sustainability and user experience across the Bank's estate, creating people-first workplaces that meet the needs of a modern workforce, while also preserving the Bank's unique heritage.

Scott Davies, CEO of ISS UK & Ireland, said: "We are thrilled to announce this prestigious new contract with the Bank of England. This win reflects ISS's deep sector expertise in government and financial services — two highly regulated environments — and our commitment to bringing the very best of that experience to support customers with large, complex estates and diverse workforce needs. We look forward to supporting the Bank as it transforms its workplaces for the future and to seeing what we can achieve together."
