

ECS Achieves Aico PLATINUM Partner Status

3 hours ago

ECS - part of the PTSG family and one of the UK's leading electrical compliance specialists - has officially achieved Aico PLATINUM Partner Status, the highest level of accreditation available from one of the UK's most trusted fire safety brands.

Levelling up from Gold to Platinum is a significant milestone, and one that reflects ECS' ongoing investment in technical excellence, industry knowledge and an uncompromising approach to safety standards. It's a recognition that sits alongside PTSG's wider commitment to raising the bar in compliance services across the UK.

As part of PTSG - Europe's leading provider of specialist services to the construction and FM sectors - ECS brings the backing of a major group with the agility and expertise of a specialist. Achieving Platinum status with Aico reinforces that position, giving clients access to the very best fire safety solutions, delivered by a team with the knowledge and accreditation to match.

As a Platinum Aico Installer, ECS is now equipped to offer clients an even broader, best-in-class range of services:

- Supply, installation and commissioning of Aico fire and carbon monoxide alarm systems
- SmartLink Gateway integration for real-time monitoring and compliance
- Maintenance, testing and servicing of all Aico equipment
- System upgrades and property-wide replacements
- Tenant safety and compliance solutions for social housing providers and landlords
- Professional advice on meeting the latest legislation and standards

For social housing clients in particular, this is great news. With evolving legislation and increasing scrutiny around tenant safety, having a single compliance partner who can deliver both electrical and fire safety services to the highest accredited standard - all tracked through our compliance management platform - means fewer contractors to manage and greater peace of mind.
