

PTSG Takes On It's Next Charity Challenge This Weekend

2 months ago

Not content with walking half a billion steps for charity in November – this Saturday (18 April 2026), colleagues from across Premier Technical Services Group \(PTSG\), led by teams from UKDRM and Pure Power, will climb Yr Wyddfa (Snowdon) to raise funds for Beat – the UK's leading eating disorder charity.

This challenge is about raising awareness as much as raising money. Eating disorders are often misunderstood. They are not limited to appearance, age group or background and they are far more than food-related conditions. They are serious mental health illnesses that affect individuals, families, workplaces and communities.

As a business built on protecting people, safety and wellbeing sit at the heart of what PTSG does every day. Supporting organisations that protect mental health is a natural extension of that responsibility.

Through this challenge, PTSG colleagues and their families will come together to help raise money to:

- Start conversations around mental health
- Support early intervention and recovery resources
- Help families access guidance and support
- Fund vital helpline services

The team has already hit it's £500 target, but every donation will help Beat continue providing life-changing support to those affected by eating disorders.
