

Corps Security Promotes Eren Stirling to Sales & Marketing Director

4 hours ago

Social enterprise and security specialist Corps Security has promoted Eren Stirling to Sales & Marketing Director. The appointment recognises Stirling's contribution to business growth since joining the organisation in 2019 as its Business Development Manager.

Stirling will lead Corps Security's sales and marketing function, focusing on brand positioning and the development of new client and partner relationships, while broadening the company's approach and expanding into new market sectors. He and his team will continue driving innovative solutions for Corps' growing portfolio of customers.

Stirling will play a pivotal role in embedding Corps' new, fully integrated security solutions model, which brings together Corps Security (security guarding), Corps Monitoring (remote monitoring), and Corps Intel (intelligence, risk and consultancy). This model ensures customers benefit from complete, proactive and reactive security solutions tailored to their specific needs. The integrated approach will drive efficiencies and deliver a streamlined experience for customers.

Stirling began his career in security 18 years ago, working in operations before moving into frontline security management at VSG in 2013, then transitioning into sales in 2017. He joined Corps in 2019 as a Business Development Manager and progressed to Solutions Director in 2021, developing experience across the corporate, public, and heritage sectors. His background spans operational delivery, sales and commercial development, giving him a strong foundation for the sales and marketing director role.

Stirling reflected: "After an extremely successful seven years with Corps, I am grateful to be recognised for this new challenge. This new role allows me to lead and help others to thrive. We have a truly exceptional team, and I'm really excited about what we will continue to achieve together. Corps is an organisation that truly invests in its people, and I look forward to what the future holds for our business, people and for our community."

Mike Bullock, CEO of Corps Security, said: "Eren brings an exceptional depth of knowledge of our clients, their challenges and how we can deliver meaningful value. As we continue to advance our technology capabilities, that insight positions him perfectly for this next step. In his new role, he will play a pivotal part in shaping our direction as a business, ensuring we deliver an even greater service to our customers. I am thrilled to see Eren take on this well-deserved next chapter."